      For my coding project I attempted to create a word search study guide game. With this app students will be able to learn important topics for their upcoming assessments and study using a fun method. Users will need to create and account and login each time they are going to play the game. When the user first makes an account it is stored in the database and their account when created successfully will get an account number assigned to it in a dictionary. Already in their account will be a list of the words that will be placed on the grid in a dictionary. Users will be given the opportunity to choose their grid size of their word search game. The grid size selected decides on how much the user receives to complete the puzzle. When the user is ready to play a grid filled with random letters will appear on the grid then they can play.
